What is StormX?

StormX is a mobile app and a browser extension that provides cashback (in cryptocurrency) to its users for their online purchases. It is one of the first crypto-based solutions that provides cashback in crypto for making purchases in fiat currencies. It even provides cashback of up to 87.5% for some of the purchases depending upon the online store and the membership level with StormX. After the Covid-19 pandemic, there was a surge in global e-commerce because online shopping was a more practical alternative back then. However, born out of necessity, online shopping is now included in our everyday lifestyles.

Following are the major primary use cases of STMX coin:

- Users can stake their STMX tokens and earn rewards in return.
- STMX tokens can be used to make online purchases to earn even more cashback with StormX.
- Holding STMX tokens to the wallets provide users with access to higher tier memberships within the StormX platform and thus helps them get increased rewards on their online purchases.

StormX (STMX) Price History

It is important to examine the price history of StormX (STMX) before attempting to make a forecast about its future value. While it is true that the past is never a guarantee of the future when it comes to cryptocurrency prices, understanding how StormX has operated in the past does help shed light on our price projection.

In late 2017, the token made its debut on the open market. The price of StormX (STMX) was $0.023 on December 22, 2017. Like many other cryptocurrencies in early 2018, STMX was also on a positive trend. A record high of $0.2466 was achieved by the token on January 9, 2018. But the value of STMX quickly dropped, and by the end of 2018, the token was trading at a range of $0.002 to $0.003. In 2019 and 2020, it fell even lower. A record low of $0.0005756 was recorded by the price of STMX on March 13, 2020. Things began to pick up speed again in 2021 after a period of recovery.

Like many other cryptocurrencies, StormX (STMX) had a successful start to 2021. The token was worth $0.009035 at the start of March 2021. An growth of over 630% brought its worth to $0.06629. This was achieved by the month's end. On 5 April 2021, though, the good times continued as STMX achieved an intraday high of $0.1069.

There was an upswing, and then a slump that didn't end until 2021. The coin had a lacklustre performance in early 2022. Not even a collaboration with PokerGo could stop the downward trend in STMX's stock. The 12-month low price of $0.01165 was reached on 22 February 2022, marking the end of the decline.

After that, the token's value started to rise again, and by 3 April 2022, it had reached a new three-month high of $0.02738. At its lowest point on May 1, 2022, the price of STMX was $0.01344.

What Makes StormX Different?

- StormX is unique in itself because it is the first ever crypto cashback platform where users can earn cashback (or rewards) on their online fiat purchases. Moreover, users can seamlessly integrate this platform with their everyday purchases. Secondly, it is available in 1000+ online stores which provide a huge number of options for users to choose from.
- Now the important question is “Is there any actual utility of StormX?” Well, STMX is just like any other crypto token that the users can stake and earn rewards in return. Moreover, it is an ERC-20 token and therefore can be integrated with smart contracts and Dapps on Ethereum as well. Hence, STMX serves the purpose of crypto.
- However, there is more to it. As we discussed that StormX platform allows users to earn cryptocurrency while they shop online. And, they can do it on a number of known websites (as discussed above), hence, StormX crypto seems promising in its use cases.
- Note that the users can withdraw their earned tokens from StormX once they have a minimum of $0.80 as a cashback balance. Thus, it can be a good way of passive income for users.

Is StormX (STMX) a Good Investment?

The StormX software and browser add-on are designed to give users a percentage of their cryptocurrency purchases back. This is a pioneering crypto-based solution, as it rewards users in cryptocurrency for spending fiat currency. Depending on the online shop and the user's StormX membership level, it even offers cashback of up to 87.5% on specific purchases.

There was a rise in international e-commerce after the Covid-19 outbreak because it was a more convenient option. Online purchasing was initially used as a result of having no other choice. The analysis predicts that by 2023, worldwide e-commerce would have expanded at a rate of 10.4 percent.

Will STMX Hit $1?

To get to $1, the price of one STMX coin would need to increase by a factor of 150. Stormx's market cap at $1 is $10 billion.

Cashback as a potential solution could be quite valuable, but the Token's utility is less evident. Second, cash refunds are extremely easy to imitate in comparison to other types of solutions. Very little activity in StormX is reflected in the app's website and Twitter feed.

Given that, it's tough to picture Stormx ever surpassing Solana in terms of Market Cap.

Under the following conditions, StormX's price could increase dramatically:

- StormX increased by a factor of 30 in just 4 months during the Liquidity boom caused by COVID. If only it could keep up this pace.
- There will be a major burn programme in which 90% of the Tokens are destroyed.

Without major shifts in app competition, the function of the Token, favourable liquidity conditions, and a massive burn programme, Storm will not hit $1.
