The MBOX token is the native utility token of the Mobox ecosystem. Accordingly, the MBOX token is an essential part of the gamified rewards mechanisms and serves as an economic incentive throughout the platform.

The MBOX token has the following use cases:

- Medium of Exchange: MBOX tokens can be swapped with other token pairs, such as USDT, making them a valuable medium of exchange within the ecosystem.
- Yield Farming: The platform offers a yield farming front, where users can stake MBOX tokens to earn rewards. This is facilitated through a collection of smart contracts known as “crates”.
- NFT Marketplace: The MOMO NFT marketplace, a decentralized marketplace with micro fees, allows users to trade, rent, and lend MOMO NFTs. These NFTs can be acquired through mystery boxes and can be used as collateral or staked to farm MBOX tokens.
- Gaming: MBOX tokens are used in various games within the ecosystem, such as MOMO Token Master, where players can earn tokens by ranking on the leaderboard. Other games include MOMO Farmer for yield farming and Trade Action for educational and competitive trading.
- Game and NFT Creation: The platform provides tools for developers to create and publish games, incorporating MBOX tokens and MOMO NFTs into their games.

Overall, the MBOX token is a central component of the MOBOX ecosystem, facilitating various activities such as yield farming, NFT trading, and gaming, while providing a secure and decentralized environment for users.

MBOX Tokenomics

MBOX is available on the Binance Smart Chain (BSC) as a BEP-20 token. The total token supply of MBOX is capped at 1 billion tokens, with a circulating supply of approximately 80 million.

MBOX token has no pre-mine, no seed round, and no offering round. According to its official whitepaper, MBOX Tokens will be distributed over 5 years according to the below schedule:
